Redefine Properties' 90 Grayston Drive development wins safety award

Redefine Properties' 90 Grayston Drive construction site was awarded first prize in the Master Builders Association North Regional Construction Health and Safety Awards.

The main contractor for 90 Grayston Drive, WBHO, received the award and the project has now progressed into the national competition.

Mike Ruttell, head of development at Redefine says: "Safety is quite literally top of our agenda. We drive it home strongly by discussing it first at every site meeting. A safe site is a positive and productive site."

Redefine appointed Health and Safety Agent ComPrac Gauteng to manage the overall occupational health and safety during the construction at 90 Grayston Drive. "In this way, we give safety due attention as well as the responsible measures and implementation from WBHO."

Speaking at the awards ceremony, executive director of the Master Builders Association North, Mohau Mphomela, said: "Companies recognised for their efforts in this regard are exemplary businesses managed by people who, although still pursuing profit, would not allow that objective to harm their staff."

Redefine is developing a 21-storey premium-grade office building at 90 Grayston Drive in Sandown, central Sandton. It's R505 million redevelopment spans 19,343m² and includes 11 levels of parking and nine levels of offices above an elevated atrium.

Demolished in March 2012, the redevelopment of 90 Grayston Drive is due for completion June 2014.
